LONGWOOD

Longwood College was under much construction this past year. 1990 offered the students new opportunities to become excellent, improved individuals. Longwood stressed education of the whole person: academically, physically, socially, emotionally, and spiritually. It will be remembered as striving towards excellence while the world was on the brink of war and the nation attempted to pull itself out of a recession. Despite the problems facing students, administration, faculty and staff, the Longwood community took the nation's grief in long easy strides. Longwood had many positive events to look forward to, such as the opening of the new library and the construction of the much needed residence hall. Though the construction of Grainger was halted for a few years and the classes that used to be held in the building were relocated, the college came through the changes skillfully.

CONVOCATION

Kay, Melissa, Sharon, Stacey and Tammy held tight to their caps.

On Friday, September 7, 1990 at 1:00 p.m., seniors celebrated convocation in Jarman Auditorium. Convocation was a time where lower classmen cap a Senior. Symbolizing the Seniors last year of Longwood life, it was a happy time for Seniors because there were only eight months until graduation. The "little brothers and little sisters" of the Seniors decorated the caps with items that served as a memory of the past three years at Longwood. Dr. Ernest L. Boyer, President of The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching spoke to Seniors about their future.

Students mingled after the ceremony on that warm day.

Laura, Irene, Tammy, Jay, Amy and Faith showed off their cap creations.

Libby, Beth and Becky competed for the most abundant tassel.

CAMPUS LIFE

FELLOWSHIP

Tyrian, Angie, Kim and Lorraine were at Blackwell Mall.

Julie talked to her mother about a schedule problem.

Chris lifted weights.

Students relaxed at an A.R.A. picnic.

OKTOBERFEST

"Can You Feel It?" was the theme for the 1990 Oktoberfest. Events began Friday, October 12 with the singer/comedian Pat Dailey (SUN). Unfortunately, the show was rained-out only fifteen minutes after it began.

Saturday morning was depressing for students and frantic for the members of Geist. The Ambassadors led tours in the rain while Geist tried to decide where Oktoberfest should be held. Around 9:30 a.m., the rain stopped and the sun peeked out a little. Geist then decided Oktoberfest booths would be held on Stubbs/Lankford Mall as usual.

Booths were sponsored by fraternities, sororities, ROTC, clubs and organizations. The Student Education Association (SEA), won first place for its booth and Art Works, Inc. took second. One well frequented booth measured strength and percentage of body fat.

WLCX made another appearance and filled the air with live broadcasts, guest appearances, and great music.

There were alumni field hockey, soccer, and rugby games as well as performances by the Lancer Edition and the Catalinas.

Bedford Gallery featured the Faculty Art Show as well as the Senior Art Show by Keith Covington and Dawn Stanley.

In addition to numerous Admissions activities, there was also the annual Oktoberfest Parade, Dick Williamson Golf Tournament, Children's Games, Biergarten, Step Show, and Young Alumni picnic.

Saturday drew to a close with the Student Union's showing of "Back to the Future III."

Sunday afternoon kicked off with the CROP Walk at two p.m., The Color Rush, Paint Battle, and picnic followed. Oktoberfest concluded with the Reggae band "Full Stop," which was presented by the Student Union.

CATCH THE SPIRIT

Tyrian, Angie, Tanya, Kim, Cyndi, Lorraine and Regina were ready to hit the town.

Rocco and Jay displayed the Oktoberfest t-shirt.

Dave and Karen danced to Fuma's tunes. Above: Jason and friends showed their spirit on 60's day.

LONGWOOD LEADERS

Marcia Shelton, Brad Owen, Don Stuart, Sue Saunders, Zav Dadabhoy enjoyed the break at lunch.

Students and Faculty sat with Dr. and Mrs. Dorrill at lunch.

Delegates awaited a speech on Multi-cultural Diversity.

Staff and Students had the opportunity to interact.

The 1991 leadership conference, entitled "Developing Leaders For Tomorrow" was held in Virginia Beach. With the help of MaryKaye Benton and Zav Dadabhoy who organized the event, the conference was both a mini-vacation and a lot of hard work. Students, faculty, and administrators attended workshops in order to learn about the various components of leadership. The conference opened with Juliann Martinez, who led the group in activities designed to increase their self-awareness and cooperation skills. Through the use of video tapes and games, she was able to make the presentation both enjoyable and educational. "Applying Leadership Styles" a presentation by Sue Saunders, Dean of Students, and Sherry Gatewood, a sophomore, defined leadership qualities and explored personal goals. Another stimulating lecture, "How to Light Their Fire: Motivation" by Brenda Cross, Director of Minority Affairs, focused on recruiting and keeping members interested in clubs and organizations on campus. Both students and administrators worked side by side towards a common goal: to better prepare Longwood students for life after college. Robie McFarland and Zav Dadabhoy, both Student Development Educators, presented a workshop entitled, "Leadership or is it OK to Question Authority." Participants discussed how to stand up for their rights in a productive manner. Also, Dr. Dorrill spoke on the relationship between leadership skills and daily life. With delegates from the Student Government Association, Peer Helpers, Resident Assistants, Peer Advisors, and many of the other organizations on campus, Longwood was well represented.

Peer Helpers presented a session on "Sexuality and Leadership Roles."

TRADITION CONTINUED

Dr. Beck wore an authentic German lederhorn and carried a beer stein.

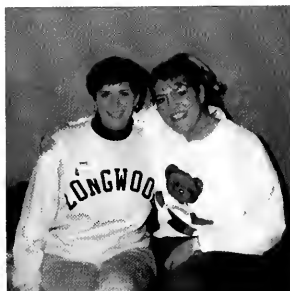

Spirit leaders displayed German dance steps after hours of practice.

Lancer Line kicked up their heels for Oktoberfest.

Sherry and Linda were spirited.

Brian displayed his biting talent at the Kappa Pi booth.

Art Work Inc. won second place for the Booth Competition.

FINE DINING

Alan Ickes and Eddie Holman are familiar dining hall faces.

Behind the scenes, the Chef and his helper stir the soup.

Donna Gulden and friend study at breakfast.

Beth Purser and Kathy Desmett talk about The Clan of the Cave Bear.

The library was finally completed.

RECREATION IS THERAPEUTIC

Good times and smiles made weekend life great.

Karen, Johnail and Tenera appreciated the Alpha Phi Omega initiation dinner.

An egyptian pose courtesy of Kim-ber.

Karen, Leslie, Janice and Alison made the girl's night out memorable.

Terry and Amy tied the knot.

Julie, Teresa, Tena, Laurie, Kendahl, Kristin and Michelle "hooked up" to attend the Pi Kappa Phi's Pimp and Whore Party.

In action, Brian spiked the ball for a point.

ARA sponsored another picnic on Lankford Mall. This one accompanied the Reggae band "Full Stop."

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

THE PRESIDENT

Dr. William F. Dorrill, Longwood's President since 1988.

VICE PRESIDENT ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

Dr. Donald Stuart, Vice President for Academic Affairs handled all the academic dilemmas for the year. Insuring a quality education, he worked for academic enrichment of the Longwood community.

During Civility Week, Dr. Dorrill served cake at the Student Appreciation Dinner.

Dr. Donald Stuart

VICE PRESIDENTS

Donald Winkler inspected some slides for publication.

Dr. Donald Winkler, Vice President of Public Affairs, recipient of many publication awards.

Dr. James Cross, Vice President of Research and Information Systems studied notes for a meeting.

The Virginian Staff apologizes to Mr. Richard Hurley, Vice President of Business Affairs and to Mrs. Nancy Shelton, Vice President of Alumni Affairs, for not scheduling a photography time.

STUDENT AFFAIRS

Phyllis Mable, Vice President for Student Affairs.

Phyllis Mable, Vice President for Student Affairs encouraged students to become involved at Longwood last year. She along with other student service groups promoted extra-curricular activities to enhance a student's overall education. She helped organize the Civility Week at Longwood in March and the special Student Appreciation Dinner.

Sue Saunders, Dean of Students, advised students and organizations with planning of activities. Advertising posters and banners were approved by her before posting them. She worked directly with the Housing Staff to help keep residence hall problems to a minimum. The installation of new security doors had a great impact on students: Sue Saunders was a Sounding Board for student problems.

Sue Saunders, Dean of Students

HOUSING STAFF

Longwood's housing staff were ready and available to help students with problems involving the residence halls. Sometimes the security keys did not function properly, if so a student took it to the office and requested a new one. The housing staff were friendly and able to help with most problems on campus.

Pamela Lea, REC Wheeler and Cox.

David Rettig, Director of Housing.

Michael Herndon, REC Frazer.

Lynette Jennings, Assistant Director of Housing.

Ken Rockensies, REC Collonades and Cunninghams.

Fun at Club Nils

As the newest class to enter the halls of Longwood College, freshmen students have shown more involvement in Longwood activities. During the first semester they participated in Oktoberfest. Selling ice cream cones, hot fudge sundaes, and lemonade gave many students the opportunity to meet new people while working to raise money for their class. Winning the Color Wars with the Junior Class at Oktoberfest was another event where the freshmen showed their support and spirit. The semi-formal Christmas Dance was also a great success with over 150 Longwood freshmen attending. During the second semester, the Freshman Class participated in the Chili Cook-off and sponsored a talent show at Spring Weekend '91. Once again, the class showed outstanding spirit and enthusiasm which made for an enjoyable year!

SPRING WEEKEND

LONGWOOD'S SALUTE TO OUR ARMED FORCES

On January 15, 1991, the allied forces were deployed to the Middle East in order to maintain peace. Saddam Hussein and his army took over Kuwait, which resulted in the military retaliation known as "Desert Storm."

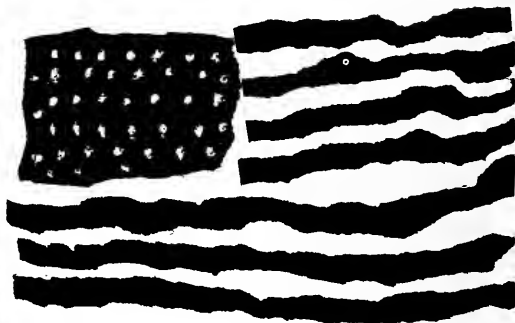

In mid-April, a formal cease fire in the Persian Gulf was declared. The allies were victorious, as many of those in Hussein's army surrendered and the Kuwaitis regained control of their city.

Many brave men and women left their homes and families in order to serve in the Gulf. The following Longwood students were called to duty to serve during the conflict: Richard Adams, Brian C. Cope, Jerdon Durham, William W. Eubank, Jason Houtz, Lancelot A. James, Steven K. Kendall, Kelly L. Moran, Jeffrey S. Roosa, Donna C. Wyche.

NEWSWEEK: FEBRUARY 25, 1991

What were you doing when the war began and how did you feel about it?

Scott Gilbert — "I was watching the television when, a news flash came across the screen that the war had started. I wasn't happy about the idea because I know people my age that had to go over there to fight."

Theresa Platte — "I had just turned the television on. I knew that it was inevitable. We couldn't let Hussein get away with what he did."

Dr. James Crowl — "I was playing bridge when it started. I am not in favor of war, so I was not happy about the decision."

Jay Wells — "I was in my room watching T.V. I wasn't surprised, because we knew the war was going to start."

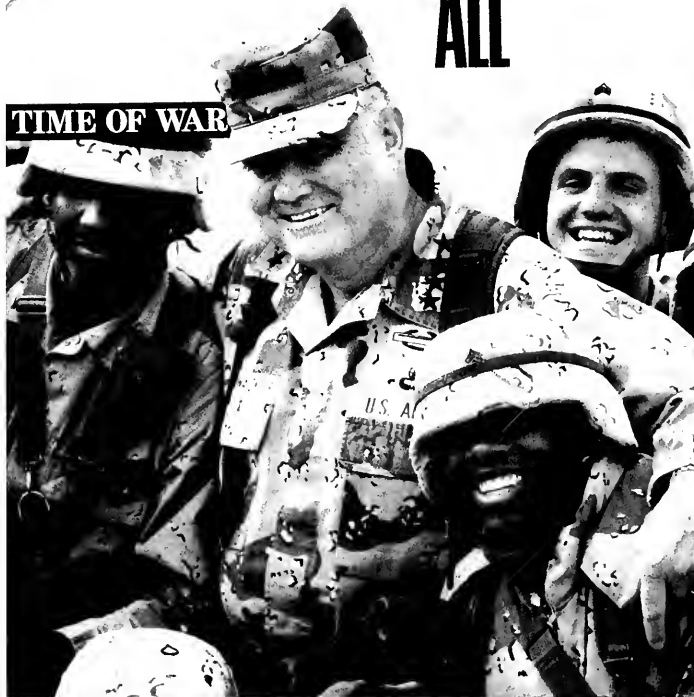

SADDAM WAS DEFEATED

The United States with allied forces was able to defeat Hussein's forces hands down. Many enemy soldiers surrendered without a fight. The war was one of despair for all parties involved. Even though the United States came out victorious many lives were ruined and lost through Saddam's cruel and gruesome treatment. A Marine corps Sergeant reported the war to be "like hell would look and feel" in a letter of correspondence to an American civilian. Although the war was tragic, it was necessary for the United States to prevent a dictator like Hussein to have his way in Kuwait and other influential countries in the Middle East. (War pictures were taken from Newsweek and Life Magazines and The Virginian would like to acknowledge them for the pictures.)

A D Pi's congratulated a new pledge at Walk 1991.

The KD's enjoyed their White Rose Formal.

Angela and Jennifer were proud and excited to be new DZ pledges.

What does being a Greek mean to me?

“A house, a grip, a badge, a song, an emblem — these do not make a fraternity. It is unseen things — friendship, brotherhood, character, honor, courage, ideals — these things make the fraternity and the man.”

There are many criteria used to judge the quality of one’s Greek experience. Because of the nature of Greek letter organizations many of these criteria are very technical and mechanical. Although these sort of activities are necessary for the existence of the organization, unquestionably it is at the opposite end of the spectrum that we find that the most important criteria is the individual’s personal experience and relationship to the chapter and its members. This is where brotherhood begins. Because, fraternity is a very personal thing.

When I view my Greek experience it is not the reports and finances I remember. It is the relationships I have developed with Greeks inside and outside of my chapter. My fraternity has become my home and the Greek community my neighborhood. I have often described my fraternity as home because it provides me everything a home should. It has given me the warmth and security I need in order to grow. It has taught me responsibility and provided me with a strong foundation on which to build my future. In this fraternal home I have depended on many older brothers who have taught and guided me through rough times, but at the same time they have entrusted me to do the same for my younger brothers. For once brothers have traveled the rough and rugged road together, they can accomplish anything.

In this home I continually encounter selflessness, because there is no room for the self-centered in fraternity. As a pledge I was continually reminded that “To be selfless often is to have the capacity and vision to know and see common good. The total implication of fraternity is that a man is participating in an association that is greater than himself."

Once a member of a greek organization one is expected to uphold and improve the dignity of the chapter and of the fraternity by both word and action. They must wholly believe their chapter can become the ideal chapter and do their part to make it so. A brother must instill responsibility to excel and become the best, yet he must show them through example how to achieve this. He must motivate all of the members, for a fraternity is only as strong as the weakest link.

I have lived my entire life under the theory that one receives in proportion to what one gives. I have never found this to be more true than in Greek life. The more effort I give to my fraternity, the more strength and support I receive. I will never be able to return everything I have been given, thus I will forever owe my brothers and fraternity.

In conclusion, Edwin Markham once wrote a poem which summarizes this thought.

"There is a destiny that makes us brothers;
None goes his way alone.
All that we send into the lives of others,
Come back into our own."

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE 1991 LONGWOOD
COLLEGE GRADUATES ...

COMPLIMENTS OF:

VIRGINIA BEACH DODGE

Virginia Beach, Virginia

Thanks Mom, Dad, and Mike for supporting me through my efforts to create a lasting memory for Longwood.

CONGRATULATIONS YEARBOOK STAFF:
WE MADE IT!!!

Thank you all for your hard work and dedication without your help this book would not have been possible. Roomie, Kim Foster, your support has meant a lot to me, Thank You! To all the Administration who made this book possible and the faculty that contributed, Thanks. You are the best Lynnette Jennings,
Thanks for your hard work to make the book a success.
Good Luck Next Year!

The Yearbook Staff would also like to give a final thanks to Lisa Dean and the Delmar Company.

LONGWOOD LICENSE PLATES

Longwood in the past had serious problems, students would come to school and be unable to find a spot in a fourth mile radius of the campus. Since the Freshmen were not allowed to have cars a lot of the parking problems were solved. Parking became much more accessible especially with the third tier's addition over by the high rises. Front row parking was no longer a dream to students but a real possibility with the new and better changes involving parking.

A LAST LOOK — 1991
